

— Nevins Introduces the Arlo Collection

Houston, TX - September 13, 2018

Nevins is pleased to introduce the Arlo Collection to its expansive family of tables. Arlo stands apart from the rest, as the first solid wood table from Nevins.

Arlo was designed with balance and stability at the forefront, and a general focus on smooth lines and a tapering form. The Arlo leg is a two-piece leg design featuring a 45-degree reinforced corner joint that is dowel pinned, and glued for strength and support. The legs are joined with a system of long and short stretchers forming a unique design that is both structurally stable and aesthetically pleasing. The solid wood interlocking joint base is a play on neat lines and wood's authentic character. The natural base provides a textural point and counterpoint to a range of top options. Arlo's tops utilize deep, thin undercuts which give Arlo its floating appearance.

Merging craftsmanship and sensibility, the Arlo table collection lends each and every setting an authentic appeal.

The Arlo table is available in four shapes (Round, Soft Square, Radius Rectangle and Soft Rectangle) and two wood species (Walnut and Ash). Options for surface material include laminate, solid surface, glass, back painted glass, walnut plank and ash plank. Wire management is concealed inside of the leg with a routed channel that accepts wires. A matching solid wood cover with a routed channel snaps on/off using four clips on the leg, which align with four keyhole pockets on the cover.
